Mr. H. M. Cottrell, Superintendent of Governor Levi P. Morton's large Stock Farm at Rhinecliffe, N. Y., says:

"We have used BALED PLANE SHAVINGS exclusively for bedding our cattle, horses, and poultry for the past two years. We prefer them to straw because the Stock keeps cleaner when bedded with Shavings, the Shavings absorb all the liquid manure and all the gases, making the air in the stable pure and sweet at all times and the manure is easier handled than that made from straw. The pure air in the stable where Shavings are used keeps the animals in better health and, with dairy cows, enables us to secure pure, healthy milk."

AT ADAMS TODAY.

Ministerial Bicycle Suggestion.

ADAMS, MASS., June 1, 1896.

MR. EDITOR:—My difficulty was not with my bicycle as my good-natured reporter so facetiously expressed it, but with a teamster who has not yet learned that the cycle paths at the sides of the roadways are for wheelmen. Just as I was about to pass, with an abundance of room, he drove out of the roadway into the cycle path to pass a team in advance and I was only able to avoid a serious collision by throwing myself instantly from my wheel. My ankle received a slight sprain but I expect to "stride my bike" again in a day or two. To the credit of the teamster, let me say he did not see me and probably does not know he was the unconscious cause of my accident.

It is not time, however, that we began to provide for the safety and convenience of the constantly increasing number of wheelmen, by constructing our roadways so a suitable portion can be used by them to the exclusion of other vehicles. On our business streets this might be impossible, but on most of our streets it would be entirely practicable. The bicycle is here to stay. Ten years from now there will be very few names in the land too poor to own a wheel. Let us join the procession and vote to give wheelmen room and provide for their safety and comfort.

Against Moonlight Dances.

In his sermon Sunday Rev. Fr. Triganne pastor of the church of Notre Dame, dwelt upon dances held in parks and other places by the light of the moon. He advised the young men and young women of his parish to keep away from them and said that no matter how good the character of the places where they are held they have a demoralizing effect upon those who attend them. He thought the places were excellent resorts in the day time but his utterances against evening entertainments were strong.

Final Camp Arrangements.

Company M and all others who desire to attend the military encampment at South Framingham next week will leave here in a special car Monday morning. This car with a baggage car for all baggage, the horses and equipments will be attached to the 9:49 train and will go through to Framingham on one train or another. Captain Hicks has round trip tickets good for the week, which he is selling for $3.75. The return trip will be made Saturday night.

THE LISTENER.

The pope has made Vicar General Ryan of Dubuque, Ia., a monsignore.

President Kruger of the Transvaal is working off his superfluous fat by riding a bicycle.

Secretary Morton is reported as saying that he is tired of public life and wants to go back to his farm.

Dr. Jameson's medical practice in South Africa at the time of his raid against the Transvaal government was rated as worth $15,000 a year.

The town of Ligonier claims to have the largest man—George W. Walker, 600 pounds—and the smallest man—Jesse Allen, 75 pounds—in Indiana.

Marquis Yamagata's name is pronounced "Yah-mah-gah-tah," with the "a" as in "far," and no accent at all. His signature is a bewildering array of hieroglyphics.

An old Amherst man recalls the fact that the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst was a member of the first anti-evangelical society at Amherst. He played the accompaniment on a piano or organ.

Senator Bruce wears out one eyeglass string a day when he is in his seat. He has a great fashion of taking off his eyeglasses and twisting the end of the string around his finger. Then he lets the glasses swing out full length.

The Rev. Joseph A. Milburn, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Indianapolis, says that he is personally in favor of Sunday baseball, but believes that the question in every community should be decided by local opinion.

St. Arthur Sullivan has started on a long vacation. He is in Monte Carlo and will visit Constantinople and Vienna. His trip is said to be wholly for health and pleasure, though it is hinted a new Turkish opera may be forthcoming.

Arthur Sullivan is riding his bicycle in the old Kent road next to his house, when he came into violent collision with a baker's errand boy. The boy wanted to fight, and the intervention of a policeman was all that prevented him from taking revenge.

SISTERLY CITIES.

No Chicago alderman is not an extrajudicial offense.—Detroit News-Tribune.

Chicago is still the leading city of the country—not quite as big as New York, but more important.—Pittsburgh Herald.

Chicago's latest claim is that she is the dirtiest city in the world, and up to this time the argument has all been on one side.—Cleveland Press.

A prizefighter has been sandbagged in Denver. It is clear that Denver's ambition is to become the Chicago of the farther west.—Louis Post-Dispatch.

Greater New York built on islands may claim to be the Venice of America. The coincidence might be further established by its bridge of size.—Philadelphia Times.

Chicago need not be worrying about having two Salvation Armies. It would require half a dozen of them to save her from the wrath to come.—St. Joseph (Mo.) Herald.

When New York found that Brooklyn school children were studying a geography that gave it out that Chicago was "the greatest city," the explosion of Dutch profanity nearly wrecked the embargo crop.—Minneapolis Journal.

As to the question whether or not the embargo may still fall upon the Chicago exporters, the Chicago Times-Herald, however, that proves nothing. A coroner's inquest might discover that they died in disgust at being carried to Chicago.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

THE LATE BARON DE HIRSCH.

Baron de Hirsch was, in a period conspicuous for philanthropy, one of the noblest benefactors of mankind.—Baltimore American.

If the good that men do lives after them, Baron Hirsch's memory should remain precious from generation to generation.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Baron de Hirsch took the needy and distressed of all races and creeds to his heart. His memory is precious to the truth of Judaism.—Philadelphia Record.

Romance contains no more picturesque figure, and Christianity itself should bow a reverent head to the passing form of this exalted Jew.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The death of Baron Hirsch is a loss to the whole human race. To one of the most ancient and illustrious lineages of the world he will seem a catastrophe. No man of the century has done so much for the Jews as he.—New York Tribune.

The man who would give $10,000,000 to end good cause and make two continents the beneficiaries of his bounty deserves all the praise that can be given him and less that the rich men of the world should take to themselves.—Detroit Free Press.

HOWE'S HOMILIES.

No woman should lean back when she laughs.

Lots of people fool around love just as if it wasn't love.

It is worth remembering that there is always a big profit in schemes.

Don't let your troubles blind you to the fact that your neighbor's sympathy is two-thirds honesty.

Gossip is a pleasant way of criticizing yourself. No man ever did a thing that you are not liable to do.

Half the mistakes of this world are made by people who think they are correcting mistakes of others.

When some men have a dollar coming to them, they are always looking for it, by the way of trying to earn another.—Athenian Globe.

SALTFIELDS HURT.

New York State Industry Demoralized by Democracy.

The western New York saltfield, embraced in the counties of Genesee, Livingston and Wyoming, extends over ten townships, with an aggregate population of 23,168. The amount of wages distributed in the salt industry in those ten townships in 1891 was in round numbers $550,000; the freights paid on salt, coal, coopersage, etc., $1,200,000; the amount paid for coopersage, box shooks, bagging, etc., was $850,000; a total distribution of money to the amount of $2,400,000 in a single year. That was under the McKinley tariff, with protection to salt.

In 1893, under the Gorman tariff, with salt on the free list, the distribution of money in this same section through the salt industry was as follows: Wages, $165,000; freights, etc., $400,000; coopersage, bagging, etc., $215,000, a total of $780,000, or a reduction of about 68 per cent traceable directly to free trade. The immediate localities suffered to the extent of $855,000 a year—a distribution of wages decreased by about $17 per capita for the entire population in the region affected, of whom less than 10 per cent were engaged directly in the salt industry. The number of persons engaged in the industry fell off from 1,200, earning $153.33 a year, to 600, earning $320 each.

In addition to this loss to labor in the locality and its resultant effect on local trade and every industry and pursuit carried on there is the item of $500,000 loss to the railroads in freights paid, nearly all of which is a labor item. Then there is the loss of $435,000 in the amount of coopersage and bagging used, the major part of which was a loss to labor affecting the lumber men in Michigan, the cotton operatives in the east and sewing girls in New York city, where the bulk of the bagging has been made up.

The manufacturers of cotton in the New England states, and the lumbermen of the north and west, are as much affected by the placing of salt on the free list as are the saltmakers in the western New York saltfield—and the great railroad corporations are affected as much as both put together.
